about the society

Formed in 1911, the non-profit American Society of Safety Engineers (ASSE) is the largest and oldest professional safety organization. Based in Des Plaines, Illinois, ASSE has 30,000 occupational safety health and environmental members who manage, supervise, research and consult on safety, health, transportation and environmental issues in all industries, government, labor and education. ASSE is a global organization that works to advance the technical, scientific, managerial and ethical knowledge and skills of occupational safety, health and environmental professionals, and is committed to protecting people, property and the environment.

ASSE provides such services as education, public affairs, government affairs, and involvement in national and international safety standards development, technical publications, and timely communications on safety advancements worldwide. Safety, health and environmental professionals help prevent workplace injuries and illnesses, create safer work and leisure environments, and develop safer products. For more information visit ASSE’s website at www.asse.org.

the ASSE foundation/scholarships-research funding

The Foundation provides funding for scholarships, fellowships, research grants, internships and professional development throughout the year. Funding comes from ASSE chapters and regions, individual members and corporations. For more Foundation information visit www.asse.org/foundat.htm.
